3D model of main buildings of the Kyiv National University of Construction and Architecture, Kyiv, Ukraine

Complex of Karazin Kharkiv National University, Kharkiv, Ukraine

ICSF 2021 | 19-21 MAY, 2021 / KRYVYI RIH, UKRAINE | Higher education institutions energy efficient methods of functional planning solution

In Ukraine, high-rise buildings are built and successfully operate in higher education institutions of Kyiv, Dnipro, Kharkiv, Donetsk, Odessa and other large cities with compacted buildings. Much of the university complexes were built in the second half of the twentieth century, so most of these buildings have a high level of wear, both physical and moral. To increase their comfort and energy efficiency, large-scale reconstruction and renovation works are required.

Participants: Eugén Terekhov, Alla Pleshkanovska, Людмила Петришин, Mykola Petrushenko, Тетяна Ковальська, Luiza Dębska, Viktoriya St.

This phenomenon is caused by many factors, including:

- environmental pollution;
- lack of gradual and timely architectural and urban modernization of the medical system;
- limited access to quality and modern health care;
- lack of a culture of healthy living;
- prevalence of self-medication;
- untimely treatment and consequence;
- numerous chronic diseases.

It should be noted that health care reform is a complex, politically negative process for any country, always accompanied by criticism, protests and opponents of change.

The only way out of this situation is to introduce step-by-step changes without abrupt and cardinal instant updates, which in this approach provide a basis for more correct adaptation and coordination.

In the civilized world the state of development of the medical industry indicates the standard of society life, the attitude to the health of citizens, care for the health of future generations.

Nowadays, a lot of countries, including Ukraine, lag far behind the world's leading countries in a number of indicators of quality and efficiency of
